

WHO WE ARE

Next Gen Trucking Foundation is a nationwide effort to connect the trucking industry with America's education system.

Next Gen's Career Technical Education (CTE) program is a curriculum guide developed through studies and input from companies, suppliers, and drivers. Our program is the first ever standardized high school curriculum guide and meets federal Entry Level Driver Training (ELDT) standards. The first program was launched in 2017 at Patterson High School in Patterson, CA. With a ready-to-Implement curriculum guide, this program can be used by any school in the country.

WHAT WE DO

- Promote career opportunities in trucking by partnering with secondary and postsecondary institutions
- Create and deliver career technical education resources for the digital generation
- Encourage young students toward a career in trucking
- Develop the supply chain workforce
- Bridge the gap between the trucking industry and education
- Provide scholarships, educational resources, and additional learning opportunities for students, teachers, and administrators

THE DIFFERENCE

- Hands-on learning with simulation technology
- Networking, partnerships, & apprenticeships
- Facilitate resume writing services
- Career Fair participation
- Leadership track opportunities
- The opportunity to pursue a career with flexible, seasonal hours or full-time positions upon program completion
- Next Gen provides these programs to students and schools free of charge!

WHY IT MATTERS

According to the American Trucking Association, the projected shortage of truck drivers is 80,000 and is expected to grow to 160,000 by 2030. The average age of a driver in the trucking industry is 38 years old; Next Gen is solving that problem and offering opportunities right out of high school.

“Next Gen supports 220 Diesel Mechanic, 40 CDL, and 15 Supply Chain Logistics programs in high schools across the country and is on the road to building more to align with the abundance of other trade industry programs.”

$10,000 is needed to implement the curriculum in any school in the nation

$80,000 provides a Driving Simulator tailored to trucking to a school
